

How Travel Writer Learned To Love Cruises Other Lies From Sinking Ship

I've been a travel writer for over 10 years, and in that time I've been on my fair share of cruises. I've sailed to the Caribbean, the Mediterranean, and the Baltic Sea. I've even been on a transatlantic crossing. And while I've always enjoyed my cruises, I've never been a huge fan. But that all changed after my recent cruise on the Royal Caribbean's Oasis of the Seas.

The Oasis of the Seas is the largest cruise ship in the world, and it's a floating city. It has everything you could possibly want on a cruise, from a water park to a zip line to a Broadway-style theater. I was skeptical at first, but I ended up having an amazing time.

Here are a few of the things I learned about cruises on the Oasis of the Seas:

1. Cruises are not just for old people

I used to think that cruises were only for old people. But I was wrong. The Oasis of the Seas had passengers of all ages, from young children to senior citizens. There were families, couples, and groups of friends. Everyone was having a great time.

2. Cruises are not boring

I used to think that cruises were boring. But I was wrong again. The Oasis of the Seas had so much to do that I didn't have time to be bored. I went to the water park, the zip line, the Broadway show, and the casino. I even did some shopping and ate at some of the amazing restaurants.

3. Cruises are not expensive

I used to think that cruises were expensive. But I was wrong once more. The Oasis of the Seas is a luxury cruise ship, but it's not as expensive as you might think. I got a great deal on my cruise, and I was able to afford all the activities and excursions I wanted.

4. Cruises are a great way to see the world

I've seen a lot of the world on my cruises. I've been to the Caribbean, the Mediterranean, and the Baltic Sea. I've even been on a transatlantic crossing. Cruises are a great way to see different cultures and experience new things.

5. Cruises are a great way to relax

I always come back from a cruise feeling relaxed and refreshed. Cruises are a great way to get away from the hustle and bustle of everyday life and just relax. You can spend your days lounging by the pool, reading a book, or getting a massage. Or you can explore the ship and try all the different activities.

I used to be a skeptic about cruises. But after my recent cruise on the Royal Caribbean's Oasis of the Seas, I'm a convert. Cruises are a great way to see the world, relax, and have some fun. If you're thinking about taking a cruise, I highly recommend it.

Additional Tips for Cruising

Here are a few additional tips for cruising:

- Book your cruise in advance. The earlier you book, the better deals you'll get.
- Consider getting a travel agent. A travel agent can help you find the best deals on cruises and can also help you plan your itinerary.
- Pack light. You don't want to lug around a heavy suitcase on your cruise.
- Bring plenty of sunscreen. You'll be spending a lot of time outdoors on your cruise, so it's important to protect your skin from the sun.
- Be prepared for seasickness. If you're prone to seasickness, be sure to take some medication before you sail.
- Have fun! Cruises are a great way to see the world and have some fun. So relax and enjoy your vacation.
