American foreign films, or films made in other countries and then released in the United States, have a long and storied history. These films have often been critical and commercial successes, and their posters have become iconic in their own right. In this article, we'll take a look at some of the most iconic American foreign films posters, from classic to film noir.

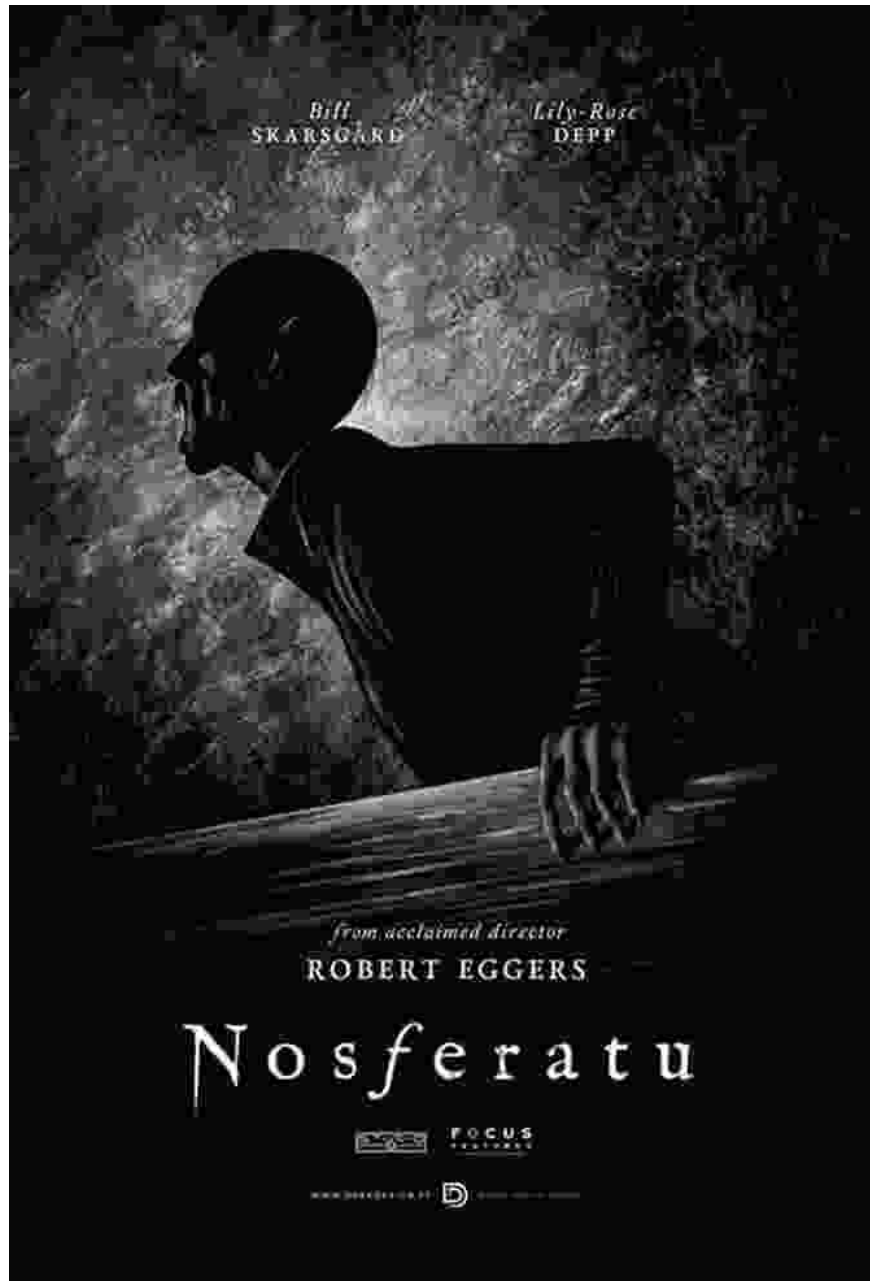

Classic Posters

The posters for classic American foreign films are often works of art in their own right. They capture the essence of the films they represent, and they are visually stunning. Some of the most iconic classic American foreign films posters include:

- The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari (1920)
- Nosferatu (1922)
- Metropolis (1927)
- The Passion of Joan of Arc (1928)
- Grand Illusion (1937)
