The journals provide a detailed and often vivid description of Cook's encounters with the indigenous peoples of the Pacific Ocean, his observations of the natural world, and his struggles to navigate the vast and unforgiving expanse of the open sea.

The journals were originally published in three volumes in 1773, 1777, and 1784. The first volume chronicled Cook's first voyage to the Pacific, which began in 1768 and ended in 1771. The second volume covered Cook's second voyage, which took place from 1772 to 1775. The third volume documented Cook's third and final voyage, which began in 1776 and ended with his death in 1779.
